

Hidden Secret of Kellyann Conway's Coat

Today I want to report on another amazing manifestation of Mary's Rosary, similar to what we already saw during Donald J Trump's inauguration yesterday, and that is in Kellyanne Conway's amazing Revolutionary War jacket, that's what she called it, which she wore and which got an awful lot of attention and you can see why; it's really unique. Just about everybody was wearing dark clothing; she stood out like a light bulb in red-white-and-blue. This was a very expensive coat designed by Gucci. I think It cost her $3,600, but it was very effective and to Kellyanne Conway, let me tell you, you got your money's worth.

Now, the 5+5 numerology is what signifies Mary's Rosary: there are five buttons on the left and five buttons on the right; very similar to the sacred numerology we found when Donald Trump took his oath of office. He had five open fingers on the Bible representing five decades of the Rosary. I mean, he didn't know that but that's what it means. With his right hand taking the oath he put three fingers above, two smaller fingers below, a thumb and a pinky. Some people said I shouldn't call them five fingers but they are all fingers. That symbolized 3 over 2 or God over man. Both those symbolized Mary's Rosary and, of course, he had five buttons on his cuff sleeve. None of that was accidental and neither is Kellyanne Conway's coat accidental.

But what does it signify besides the 5+5 numerology? Well, I got an interesting message this morning; I want to read this for you; I got this from 'John B' and he said:

'Did anyone notice Kellyanne Conway's outfit?'

Thank you for letting me know about this; I was not aware.

'She is Catholic.' Very good point, I believe Donald Trump is going to become a Catholic.

'The outfit included several cats' heads.' So that's what those buttons represent! Well isn't that interesting? 'How many', John asks. Well, 5+5, for a total of ten. 'What does her outfit mean?' Ok, let's take a closer look at those cats' heads. Those are big cats' heads; maybe lions or tigers or maybe a leopard? That's what they symbolize: they symbolize Barack Obama and it looks like they are trophies. Barack Obama was defeated by Donald Trump, make no mistake about it. Just about everything Obama brought into the presidency Donald Trump is undoing. Barack Obama is very important in Bible prophecy: he is the Leopard in Daniel 7 and he is the Lion in Jeremiah 50. That's what these heads represent.

And at this point I want to congratulate Barack Obama: he chose not to become the Antichrist. Remember that dream he had in his autobiography 'Dreams From my Father'? He was chased by a leopard and the leopard turns into a huge evil, ugly figure as tall as the trees, 'when day turns into night', in other words at the very end. And the huge figure is wearing a loincloth. It represents paganism. The eyes are hollow; they have an evil stare. Barack Obama wakes up from that dream in a sweat; he is very much frightened. That figure represented the Antichrist and he himself could have become the Antichrist. Barack Obama spent the last several months and weeks of his presidency trying to provoke Putin into world war three and he could have very easily: he had advisors both in the Democrats and in the Republicans that urged him to do that; to declare martial law. Congratulations, Barack, you chose not to be the Antichrist. And there are many people on YouTube who said he was the Antichrist; that was premature. But I don't fault those people because he could have chosen to become the Antichrist.

What comes next? If the Leopard, that is Barack Obama has left the scene, and I hope and pray that he has, that means that all three Beasts in Daniel 7 have come up out of the sea: the Lioness, the Bear and the Leopard. What is the next Beast? The fourth and final beast is the Antichrist and the New World Order, the One World Government that will now be Trump's adversary. It will be up to him to defeat the kingdom of the Antichrist. He still needs a great deal of prayers. Kellyanne's coat and the signs that Trump gave when he took the oath of office, that numerology, right out of the Bible, tells us that it is Mary's Rosary that will defeat the Antichrist and I believe it was Mary's Rosary that also defeated the Leopard. So, that's my message for today. We are finding out many more fascinating aspects of this inauguration of Donald Trump and if you my subscribers, like 'John B', see anything else that's interesting, please let me know.
