

Pope: Catholics Who support Trump are Haters!

I read a very interesting article a couple days ago on LifeSite news about Pope Francis opposing Donald Trump once again; and the article appeared in La Civiltà Cattolica written by a couple of friends of his and they really blast Catholics and Evangelicals who worked together to defeat Hillary Clinton in the last election and that is evidently a cardinal sin in the newly taken over Vatican. Anyway, let me read this for you because it is very interesting and I'll show you the cover and maybe you can see the headline:

<https://www.lifesitenews.com/news/u.s.-catholics-and-evangelicals-supporting-trump-are-fostering-an-ecumenism>

'Vatican Reviewed Magazine Accuses Catholics of Hate for supporting Trump'. Would you believe that? And the dateline is Rome, July 13th, and this is LifeSite news and the article is by Pete Baklinski and he did a good job: 'Conservative Catholics in the United States have formed an ecumenism of hate with Evangelical Protestants in their united support for President Trump and his policies claimed an Italian Jesuit magazine that is reviewed by the Vatican prior to publication.' That means that Pope Bergoglio approved this article as I'm sure he did. This was right down his alley. 'The article published July 13th, in La Civiltà Cattolica claims that some US Catholic conservatives have built ties with fundamentalist Evangelicals for political purposes that evince enormous differences with Pope Francis.'

Now, the Pope is not concerned about other ties between Evangelicals and Catholics; only if they support Donald Trump. 'Appealing to the values of fundamentalism, a strange form of surprising ecumenism is developing between Evangelical Fundamentalists and Catholic Intelgralists (whatever they are) brought together by the same desire for religious influence in the political sphere the article states. So evidently religious influence in the political sphere is a no-no according to Pope Francis, or Cardinal Bergoglio, as I should say, unless of course, it's his influence. 'Some who profess themselves to be Catholic express themselves in ways that until recently were unknown in their tradition and using tones much closer to Evangelicals. There is a well-defined world of ecumenical convergence between sectors that are paradoxically competitors when it comes to confessional belonging. This meeting over shared objectives happens around such themes as abortion, same-sex marriage, religious education in schools and other matters generally considered moral or tied to values.' Well, I think it's great that the unborn finally have a voice in government. We are not getting much of that from the Vatican.

'Both Evangelical and Catholic Intelgralists (whatever that is) condemn traditional ecumenism (well I wouldn't say that) and yet promote an ecumenism of conflict that unites them in the nostalgic dream of a theocratic type of state, it adds.' In other words, Pope Francis wants a separation of church and state and that's the exact same goal as the One World Government and he is making it a goal of his One World Religion as housed in the taken over Vatican. And this article continues: 'The authors of the report are two of Pope Francis' close confidants, editor-in-chief Jesuit Fr Antonio Spadaro and Marcelo Figueroa, an Argentine Presbyterian pastor who leads his country's edition of the Vatican newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano.' So, as I say, he doesn't mind Catholics and Protestants getting together as long as they don't support Trump. 'Spadaro and Figueroa state that the most dangerous prospect for this strange ecumenism is a xenophobic and Islamic phobic vision that wants walls and purifying deportations. The word ecumenism transforms into a paradox, into an ecumenism of hate, the writers state. (No, my dear Vatican employees of the False Prophet, you get hate when you invite Islamists and jihadists into your country) Clearly there is an enormous difference between these concepts and the ecumenism employed by Pope Francis with various Christian bodies and other religious confessions. His is the ecumenism that moves under the urge of inclusion, peace, encounters and bridges'. Not really! If you want peace you want to go to countries like Poland where they ban Islamists and jihadists.

And this article concludes: 'Wall Street Journal Vatican correspondent Francis Roca said that it is unlikely that the authors would have written the article without the Pope's approval, presumed or explicit.' Absolutely! Nothing appears in this magazine unless phony Francis approves of it. As I say, what he wants is a separation of church and state, just as all the other One World people want. And we see that in Daniel in the statue in Nebuchadnezzar's dream with the feet of iron and clay. The iron and the clay, which do not join together, represent the One World Government and the One World Religion. And who defeats the One World Government and the One World Religion? Well, if you read Isaiah and Micah you know it is Donald Trump who is going to defeat the One World Government and Religion, which are the 'gates of brass and the bars of iron'. The stone cut from the mountain by Jesus (He is the stone cutter; He is not the stone) that stone is the remnant Catholic Church and Donald Trump is going to become a Catholic. Last week one of my subscribers wrote to me and said, well how can Donald Trump become a Catholic and oppose the Pope. I said he will be just like me: I'm a practicing Catholic and I oppose this Pope very much.
