

McCain's Funeral and the Antichrist's Head Wound

This past weekend we were treated to a series of rather bizarre statements from Senator John McCain saying that he didn't want President Donald Trump at his funeral! Well, why is he planning a funeral? Supposedly because he has brain cancer but I suspect that he doesn't really have brain cancer. I think he is prefiguring the Antichrist and in the Bible the Antichrist also has a head wound but it is fake; 'as it were' as Saint John says. And I'm curious, if Senator John McCain is faking it, what would be his rationale?

He said he didn't want to invite President Donald Trump to his funeral. What a ridiculous statement that was; but he did want to invite Vice President, Mike Pence, former President, George Bush, and former President, Barack Obama. If I were Mike Pence I would be a little nervous about being lumped in with those two because Q Anon says there's a lot of treason in the Deep State and he has suggested that John McCain will be charged with treason. Is that why he had this attack of brain cancer? Is it real? Or, as I say, is he prefiguring the Antichrist with a fake head wound? Do I have any justification for claiming that John McCain is faking it?

Well, shortly after he had his diagnosis of brain cancer he was given a medical boot because supposedly he developed a tear in his Achilles tendon on his right leg and he had to wear a protective boot. And it wasn't long before, a few weeks later, this picture was taken and the boot was on the other foot. As much as I know about Achilles heel tendons, the injury does not migrate from one leg to the other. So let me show you these funny pictures; and of course, the internet picked up on this right away.

Here's McCain standing in the Capitol with his boot on his right leg. Here he is sitting in the garden with his wife and the boot is on the other leg. Here he is standing with his boot on his right leg and here he is sitting in a wheelchair and, lo and behold, the boot is back on his left leg. So I think I have a pretty good justification for accusing McCain of faking it. He is certainly and obviously faking the wound on his Achilles heel tendon.

But, that's not what the government said from Walter Reed Hospital. Here's the statement that I guess they issued: 'Senator McCain was treated at Walter Reed Memorial Center over the weekend for a minor tear in his right Achilles tendon as well as for other normal and non-life-threatening side effects of cancer therapy'. I never heard of tearing your Achilles tendon as a normal side effect of cancer therapy. In fact, I looked it up on the Internet. I googled: 'side effects of cancer therapy' and I looked up the National Institute of Health. They list 23 possible side effects. Nowhere do they list a possible tear to your Achilles tendon. And I looked at some other sites, probably looked at 50 different possible side effects. Tearing your Achilles tendon is not a side effect of cancer treatment.

And here's the rest of the statement: 'Senator McCain has returned to work in the Senate and will be wearing a walking boot until the injured tendon is fully healed.' (Or, until he decides to switch it to his other left foot.) Now, I added that part; he didn't put that in his press release. After the internet pointed out the hypocrisy, or the fakery, of John McCain switching his walking boot from the injured foot, supposedly injured foot, to the other foot, here's what he put out, he said: 'Thank you for your support and best wishes. My left leg was doing extra work to compensate for the boot so I'm giving it a break. I still hate wearing the boot but it won't slow us down from frying seven turkeys today.' Now isn't that comical? The reason I suggest that McCain may be a precursor of the fake head wound to the Antichrist was because our Lord often uses actions of high-profile figures, like Senator McCain, to prefigure End Times actions in these End Times. For example, when Barack Obama accepted his Nobel Peace Prize, and when he gave his acceptance speech, he used the word 'war' 44 times. That was not accidental. That was to indicate that Barack Obama is indeed the Leopard as found in Daniel, chapter number 7.

And let me read to you what the Bible says about the head wound of the Antichrist, Revelation 13, verse number 3: 'And I saw one of his heads, as it were, wounded to death and his deadly wound was healed and all the earth wondered after the beast.' As I have explained on this program many times, the Antichrist has seven heads, so obviously, we're talking symbolism here. And his number one head is the False Prophet. Remember those seven heads have names of blasphemy. They represent the seven apostate major religions of the End Times. Could it be that Pope Francis, as the False Prophet, will also suffer a wound, a fake deadly wound. And what would cause him to do that? Why would he bring about a false flag? I suspect for the same reason John McCain has done so. McCain wants sympathy, just in case President Trump accuses him of treason and he is indicted. If the President, Donald Trump, knows that McCain is going to die shortly, that he's going to have a funeral, he knows that it would not be popular for him to kick a man while he's down, so to speak.

But what if it's fake, as I suggest? Pope Francis could do the exact same thing. President Trump has said, I shouldn't say President Trump, Q Anon, to me they are synonymous, has said that this month is going to be a terrible May for the Pope. I suspect that is because it will be revealed he is not a legitimate Pope; that he has been put in office by people like George Soros, Barack Obama, the Clintons, John Podesta and so on. I think he's got proof of that. That's why it's going to be a terrible May for Pope Francis and Pope Francis will do the exact same thing as John McCain. He will elicit sympathy from the people by staging a false flag and he will suffer a deadly wound, 'as it were', as the Bible says. And President Trump will hold back on revealing the information that he has about the election of Pope Francis.

So that is my message for today. I'm tying together all the ridiculous statements that John McCain said this past weekend about not inviting Donald Trump to his funeral. And it's interesting that if he's going to actually have a funeral why is he still serving in Congress? He's not really thinking much of the people. He has not yet resigned; have you noticed that? That's another indication to me that McCain is as phony as a $3 bill.